

It appears that politics and money are going to force this issue into approval and implementation. Although unusual in todays legislation matters, may I suggest the approval include a sunset clause allowing a maximum ONE years activity and then take a reasonable time to perform an indepth evaluation of the pros and cons of the BPL's performance and then determine the worthiness and future of this controversonal system.